All drying charges and grade discounts will be deducted when the grain is priced.

The Ohio Department of Agriculture now supplies an official numbered document for all grain deposited for Delayed Price. The agreements are offered on a continuous basis and will not expire. The agreement also covers all commodities and so once signed and on file a single form will cover all future delayed price transactions. However, if the name on the grain account is changed, a new delayed price agreement will be required.

Delayed Price agreements must be on file prior to delivery of the grain or within 15 days of initial delivery date.

Delayed Price grain cannot be used to fill forward contracts or be transferred to Grain Bank.

Due to market conditions the above delayed price rates are not guaranteed and are subject to change without notice.

If the Corn or Soybeans is sold within 5 days of delivery the storage charge will be waived. If placed on Delayed Price within 5 days the current Delayed Price charges will apply. A 2 cents warehouse receipt fee will be charged upon the issuance of a receipt. Warehouse receipts will require prepayment of drying charges and the storage charges through the duration of the loan. Upon redemption of the loan, the unused portion of the storage, except for 60 cents minimum will be refundable depending upon when the loan is redeemed.

Corn Grain Bank Storage

3 cents per month (prorated per day .00100) per bushel until used or October 1, 2019. Drying is billed to your account at the end of the month the grain is received. Grain placed on Grain Bank Storage and later sold will revert back to the Delayed Price rate the day delivered.
